

THE CANNONS TROPHY - Farnham Estate 2010

PADDY POWER ARE DELIGHTED TO BE INVOLVED
IN THE 4th YEAR OF THE ANNUAL CANNONS EVENT
& THIS YEAR SHOWS THE MOST COMPETITIVE
FIELD!!!

Nick Fingleton – (12) 3/1 – Two years without the title, disappointing to say the least. Seems that this contender falls short to St Michael's folk..With Daisy out of the picture pressure is actually ON. Surely he must go home with victory in hand?

John Owens – (16) 7/2 – So close each year but just can't seem to get over the line. The committee are looking for their first scalp this year and this man must be the front runner. Three years in the top 3 and plenty of practice this season put Mr Owens in contention. Bookies made a wage on him last year, not so sure this year?

Darragh Connaughton – (20) 9/1 – Has showed a lot of improvement this season. An extremely competitive player with a passion to win. Maybe not in the same field as favourites however on a good day his odds are generous.

Ray Kane – (20) 5/1 – Had a good outing last year. Word is out he's prepared for this one. Relatively unknown competitor so field beware. Never rule out an accountant.

Paddy Lyons - (19) – 9/1 – The one and only. Although a comedian this man has to be watched. He's been known to put his opposition off with woeful jokes. Don't rule out this brick layer.

Ronan McGoldrick – (21) 16/1 – Having just opened his own golf course in his back garden this gent is out to win. On first name basis in the local driving range he would love to add the silverware to an empty cabinet. If he stays away from his “temper” golf he has a chance.

Stephen McGovern - (24) 20/1 – With the wooden spoon in hand this man has a point to prove. If he leaves the driver in the bag he has a chance. Do not rule him out...anything is possible!

William Owens – (22) 12/1 - A new comer with practice in hand, the Owens’ are a tricky bunch. If he can show some form and remain calm he’s worth a punt.

Shane Crowley (18) 7/1 – First appearance on the Cannons beware contenders this musician is better at golf than the “bass”. Although his style is somewhat strange he will demand a result and will expect a top finish.

Keith Brock (24) 16/1 – With the right hair gel in his bag this fella is dangerous. Although his drives are long they must be straight to stand a chance. Plays his golf with low handicappers so knows how to get over the line. Will he turn up? Worth a wager..

Mark Kelly (24) 12/1 – Likes a day out and rest assured will be prepared. A gentleman off course, not so in competition. Beware of this man as he's out to win and needs to be watched.

He's an outsider with good odds..

Paul Johnston (20) 7/1 – If he's not in the gym he's on the golf course. This man has a chance and should not be overlooked. Will he borrow Ian Poulter's kit or game this year? Your guess is as good as mine.

Cannons,

When placing a bet, our standard betting practises apply;

- All bets are confirmed by e-mail.
- Money to be paid on the day of the event.
- Verbal bets not taken.

All profits go towards Beverage fund and in the event of a loss for bookmaker, TOTE rules apply

Have a great day and best wishes from all the staff at Paddy Power